COUNTY TICKET.

HOW COL. JOHN A. MARTIN TALKS.

At the time I wrote the article referred to by the Post was of the general opinion that the celebrated "Mulligan letters" established at least a probable case of improper conduct in his public capacity. Having since that time carefully studied the entire correspondence and read all that both sides have had to say in regard to it. I wish now to say that, regarded from any point of view, I see no evidence of an abuse of public trust. It was an unfortunate thin all over, natural and at home. He said.

Republican party is to survive for another quarter of a century, its most ardent friends could wish for it no other record, no prouder history, no more beneficial and useful career, than that of the past twenty-five years. Kansas was, in 1859, a poor, weak, distracted, oppressed territory. What a great, no proud nowerful imperial commonwealth.

The people of Sedgwick county, Kansas, prosperous powerful imperial commonwealth it now is. A million and a quarter of people, living in the richest and most prosper-ous state of the union—a state gridironed by

of the whole civilized world.

And why should not a political party, like an individual, proudly point to an honorable record of noble endeavors and great achievements? It is something to have a party that can be pointed to without blushing. It is something to have a record that does not have to be explained, denied or lied about. When a man can say that he belongs to a party which crushed the rebellion, abolished slavery, preserved the union, and made this, a great Nation; a party that has dotted the land with school houses, a party that gave to the people the homestead law, and established the best financial system the world ever knew, it is something to be proud of. And when he can add that he belongs to a party which intends to see that the civil rights of every American citizen are protected at home or abroad; that every legal voter shall have a right to cast one free, unintimidated ballot, and to have that ballot homestly counted; that the debt of gratitude the counted; the counted the proposed the pro have a right to cast one free, unintimidated ballot, and to have that ballot honestly counted; that the debt of gratitude the country owes to the soldiers and sailors of the Union shall be honestly remembered and repaid; that the people shall be protected against unjust extortions or discriminations by corporate power; and that laws enacted by the people, for the people, shall be respected and enforced—all this is also something to be proud of.

For twenty-five years I have annually.

For twenty-five years I have annually, except during the period of the war, and for about two vears thereafter, called to order the Republican conventions of Atchison county. During all that time I have been chairman of your county central committee. To-day, probably for the last time, I discharge, this pleasant duty, and I avail myself of the opportunity to return my sincere thanks to the Republicans of this county for their constant confidence and friendship that has never been denied me; that has never wavered or faltered, during all the lights and shadows of twenty-five revolving years. Before I was a voter you made me the chairman of your county executive committee, and annual-For twenty-five years I have annually, county executive committee, and annually, ever since, except during the years when rado Republican.

Well, well, we have thought some of doing that. It's a very hard thing, Bro. Murdock, to resign a postoffice. It is, in fact, the most difficult thing a man is ever called upon to do. Still, we have revolved that proposition over several times in our mind. And we might take several thousand people into our confidence and say that we have made up our mind decisively that if Mr. Cleveland is elected president, shortly after the 4th day of next March we would give the postoffice up. If Mr. Blaine is elected, however, and at now looks that way, the duties of a postmaster will be so much easier to perform to an they would be in the other case, we shall not resign. In that event, we

JUDGE TOURGEE'S POLITICS.

Judge Tourgee having been assailed by the New York Evening Post for what it called his inconsistency in opposing Mr. Blaine's nomination and advocating his election, has published a long letter in the Tribune, in which he explains and justifies his position. He closes by saying:

Again, I could not support Mr. Cleveland because of the company he keeps. I do not refer now to his hours of relaxation, but to the public side of his character. He has associated with him upon the ticket one who was the counsellor, friend and champion of the Indiana Copperheads during the war. Now while I hold a man to be wanting in common manhood who will not forgive an open and honorable enemy and account him, if his merits justify, worthy of the closest friendship and the highest honor, yet I deem him worse than a fool who ever forgets or forgives the man of mature years who had not courage enough to go with the rebels nor manhood enough to stand by the country, but who stabbed in the back those who fought for the liberty he now enjoys. Others may vote to put such a man where he may exercise the highest powers joys. Others may vote to put such a mar where he may exercise the highest power of the nation, but I never shall. Mr. Cleve where he may exercise the highest powers of the nation, but I never shall. Mr. Cleveland himself seems to have been blissfully ignorant that a war was in progress. He not only did nothing, but he said nothing. I once stood by while a gentleman who had a very fat dog drove some trespassing cows out of his grounds. After expelling the intruders, he turned upon the dog, who had simply sat upon the doorstep and watched the proceedings in silence. "Take that, and that, and that," said the enraged owner, as he chucked one stone aster another against the well-cushioned ribs of the delinquent. "I didn't expect you to run, but you might at least have barked!" Mr. Cleveland did not even bark, and Mr. Hendricks growled for the other side. Mr. Blaine nid not enter the service. I am sorry for it, and do not doubt that he is also. But if he didnot actually do any fighting for the country, he stood by the crewd that did fight. He showed his good will, and never permitted any doubt good will, and never permitted any dor as to which side he was on.

able so public trust. It was an unfortunate thin all over, natural and at home. He said:

Gentlemen of the Convention:—Twenty-five years ago, on the 7th day of the month of May, I called to order the first Republican can convention ever held in this county. It was a mass-tonvention, yet those in attendance hardly exceeded in number the delegates assembled here to-day, representing the Republican voters of Atchison county. It was called to organize the Republican party of the county, and to elect delegates to the first territorial convention held at Osawatomic eleven days later. The Republican party of Atchison county and of Kansas has, therefore, just passed its twenty-fifth birthday. And to those who have been identified with its history during that long, eventful period, this rounding of a full quarter of a century of party life is an occasion of more than ordinary interest.

Our political opponents now and then meer at the fact that Republicans "point with pride to the past." But surely if the Republican party is to survive for another quarter of a century, its most ardent friends could wish for it no other record, no proud-

And now, gentlemen of the convention, invoking upon your deliberations the blessings of harmony and the saving grace of Republican common sense, and appealing to you to remember that your opponents alone rejoice over and are benefitted by personal and factional feuds in your ranks, I await your pleasure.

CAN'T RESIGN.

Our old friend, Jacob Admire, of the Osage City Free Press, should resign his postoffice. He is too bright an editor, too independent in his views, too belligerent to fool his time away on a postoffice.—[Eldorado Republican.]

Yes, it is a vexed queetion—whether it is better to resubmit the question to a vote of the people and run the risk of burying it clear out of sight forever, or, by a decisive reendorsement place it upon a firm, everlasting foundation and thus obtain for it the respect and obedience of all classes of people in the state. It is a vexed question.

Mr. J. G. Mohler, who was president of the Republican resubmission convention at Topeka, has at last declared against Glick case, we shall not resign. In that event, we think we can see various channels by which we can make ourself useful as a postmaster, and we don't think we shall prove a deadhead in the enterprise.—[Osage City Free Press.]
